Around the time a woman was breaking into my apartment, various allusions to this event were made at SelectQuote Insurance. The method of entry suggests theatrics were planned from the get go. The keys left hanging on my window didn't open anything, but were probably there to suggest that they opened my door. The woman probably had a master key, but conceivably could have picked the lock while pretending to use the keys as well.

I was given a fake rock for hiding keys while on the job at SelectQuote around this time. Just out of the blue. I was also warned to change my locks before my then estranged wife got back into town. GRACE RANCH
A 1951 brochure for a sale of horses from Peter Licavoli's Grace Ranch Chauncey Holt asserts this ranch that was very near Tucson Arizona was a CIA training facility for overthrow activities. He provides records of B-52's and ammunition being bought and sold and he reports flying C-47's with military cargo into nations for the CIA., Holt asserts a souped up Oldsmobile was bought in Arizona and driven to Dealey Plaza. A pickup truck was also acquired and made a stop by "the strip club" in Dallas. Selling off the betting horses freed up the operators of the ranch for CIA activities

CIA used Davis–Monthan "boneyard" aircraft for Bay of Pigs-era operations.
An official Air Force Special Operations history states that the B-26s used were CIA-purchased and refurbished from the mothball fleet in the Air Force's aircraft boneyard at Davis–Monthan AFB.
Prouty shows up in official Bay of Pigs documentation as a USAF representative/liaison.
The National Security Archive's OCR of the CIA history includes the line identifying "Fletcher Prouty" as the "000/050 USAF representative" in the Bay of Pigs air operations narrative.
Those two points make it reasonable to say:
Davis–Monthan boneyard aircraft + CIA activity + USAF liaison roles were part of the same ecosystem.

ChatGPT: One mighty speculae it was a very large home for a single woman. Perhaps at one time it was a home of three or more.

> Yes — that speculation is very plausible in this case.
> A major detail that's been reported is that Nancy Guthrie has lived in that same Tucson-area home for about 50 years and that she bought it in 1975.
> That timing strongly implies it was originally a family home, not something she bought recently as a solo retiree.
> Also, Realtor.com reports that Savannah visited her mother "at the home where she grew up."
> If Savannah grew up there, then the household would have included Nancy, her husband, and their children for at least some period.
> Given that Savannah's father died when she was 16 (late 1980s), and the home was purchased in 1975, the simplest, most evidence-consistent read is:
> ➜ The home was bought while the family was intact, and
> ➜ Her husband likely lived there during those years.
> What we can't say from news coverage alone is a formal proof like "his name is on the deed," because that would require property/deed records. But your "large home for one person" intuition lines up with what's been reported: it appears to be a long-held family residence that she continued living in after being widowed.

My book on my life alleges a self funding criminal harassment scheme has picked fights with me on matters created for public spectacle as though I were an abnormal form of cognition, abnormal sexual interests regarding exploitative interests in other and interests in minors, and a seeming dedication to racial strife, all areas of State and public interest in me, and where the public would be on the defensive against me at least socially an perhaps suing my Trust Fund as an insurance source against alleged conduct of mine that is harmful to others, and also to seek money from the trust fund for grants to patrol public spaces in the defense of those spaces and people from me.

My theory of this is the crisis or potential crisis of my presence in public is in fact the risk to Espionage agencies since my normal life undermines long term abuse of my families reproductive biology and the State continues to do so in harassment and misuses of it under Conspiracy, the manufacture of Pretexts which are untrue but subvert my rights as on outcome of the manufactured pretexts.

INCHOATE/INCOMPLETE CRIMES, CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT CRIME

- Criminal Attempt
- Conspiracy
- Aiding and Abetting

- Obstruction of Justice after the fact

INCHOATE CRIMES

Inchoate crimes, also known as incomplete crimes, are acts taken toward committing a crime or acts that constitute indirect participation in a crime. Although these acts are not themselves crimes, they are illegal because they are conducted in furtherance of a crime, and society wishes to deter individuals from taking such steps. Three primary inchoate crimes are attempt, conspiracy, and aiding and abetting.

CONSPIRACY

A conspiracy occurs when two or more people agree to commit an illegal act and take some step toward its completion. Conspiracy is an inchoate crime because it does not require that the illegal act actually have been completed. For instance, a group of individuals can be convicted of conspiracy to commit burglary even if the actual burglary never happens. Conspiracy is also unique in that, unlike attempt, a defendant can be charged with both conspiracy to commit a crime, and the crime itself if the crime is completed.

Finally, in most states, conspiracy requires an "overt act" taken in furtherance of the crime. This overt act does not have to be the crime itself, nor does it have to be an act that is illegal. Rather, the act must merely be a step taken in furtherance of the criminal objective, such as buying a weapon or holding a meeting to plan an attack. The act must also take place after the group of individuals has agreed to conspire. Actions taken before the agreement do not fulfill this requirement. While an "overt act" implies an affirmative action, some courts have held that silence can be an overt act where it is intentional, planned, and done in furtherance of the conspiracy.

ELEMENTS OF A CONSPIRACY

Conspiracy first requires a showing that two or more people were in agreement to commit a crime. This agreement does not have to be formal or in writing. All that is required is that the parties had a mutual understanding to undertake an unlawful plan. Second, all conspirators must have the specific intent to commit the objective of the conspiracy. This means that someone who is entirely unaware that she is participating in a crime cannot be charged with conspiracy. For instance, if two sisters agree to rob a bank and ask their brother to drive them to the bank without informing him of their intent to commit a crime, he cannot be charged with conspiring in the robbery. This specific intent requirement does not require that each individual knows all the details of the crime or all of the members of the conspiracy. As long as an individual understands that the act being planned is a criminal one and proceeds nonetheless, he can be charged with conspiracy.

SOLICITATION

Solicitation is an inchoate crime that involves seeking out another person to engage in a criminal act. A defendant may be charged with solicitation if he or she requests or induces another person to commit an act that would amount to a felony. The two elements of solicitation are the intent to have someone else commit a crime and an act committed in furtherance of convincing another person to commit a crime.

INTENT

In order to establish the first element of a solicitation, a prosecutor must show that the defendant affirmatively intended to have another commit a crime. This means that an individual may not be charged with solicitation for mistakenly asking another to commit a crime, often because the individual does not realize that the act is itself a crime. For instance, assume a man believes that his neighbor agreed to let him borrow the neighbor's lawnmower, but the neighbor did not actually consent. The man asks his son to go get the lawnmower for him from the neighbor's yard. Even though it would be a larceny for the son to take the lawnmower, the man would likely not be guilty of soliciting his son because the man did not realize that taking the lawnmower was a crime.

DEFENSES TO CONSPIRACY

Factual impossibility applies when there are circumstances that make it impossible to complete the intended crime. For instance, if a man intends to commit arson and buys all the necessary supplies, but, unbeknownst to him, the building is demolished the next day, he could argue factual impossibility if charged with attempted arson. In some states, however, factual impossibility is not a defense, as courts rely on the fact that the person still had the intent to comm

Like other inchoate crimes such as attempt, a defendant charged with conspiracy can raise the defense of abandonment or withdrawal. In order to do so, a defendant must show that he affirmatively communicated his withdrawal to his co-conspirators and took some positive action to withdraw from the conspiracy. Additionally, the defendant must have withdrawn from the conspiracy prior to its completion. Importantly, the defendant must have definitively cut ties with his fellow co-conspirators. If he continues to communicate with them or assist them in any way, this may prevent him from raising the defense of withdrawal.

Another defense available in conspiracy cases is the defense of entrapment. Entrapment means that the defendant was persuaded to participate in the conspiracy by a law enforcement officer or government agent and that he or she would not otherwise have become involved in the conspiracy. Specifically, the defendant must show that (1) the idea for the conspiracy came from an officer and not the defendant; (2) the defendant was persuaded to participate in the conspiracy by an officer and (3) before being persuaded, the defendant had no intention of committing the crime.

List of Possible Charges That Can be Brought Against a Police Officer retrieved from https://www.attorneys.com/ and copied or modified to here

Police officers are citizens like anyone else, though they have broad powers as police officers to protect people and to enforce the law. If their conduct exceeds their authority, then criminal charges may be brought against them.

www.attorneys.com retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

NON-CRIMINAL CHARGES

Police officers sometimes do commit certain unlawful acts while acting under their authority, which in many instances do not result in criminal charges but in disciplinary action such as racial profiling, falsifying information on a search warrant, planting evidence on suspects, harassing certain groups, or fabricating reasons for detaining people or drivers to justify arrests.

These offenses, along with official acts that may constitute false arrest, malicious prosecution, falsifying evidence, or even committing perjury in court or while submitting an arrest or search warrant, are usually treated as civil rights violations, or torts. In these cases, police officers can be held civilly liable under Title 42 United States Code1983 for injuries a person sustained as a result of deprivation of a constitutional right such as the right to due process.

LIST OF POSSIBLE CRIMINAL CHARGES

- Assault and battery
- Sexual assault
- Misusing public funds
- Drug dealing
- Ticket fixing
- Homicide

Police officers have access to evidence such as controlled substances obtained from arrests and searches and many have stolen evidence either no longer used in criminal cases or never turned over for prosecutions following search and seizures to sell in unlawful drug transactions.

Other officers under the guise of professional courtesy have fixed tickets given to other officers or other public officials or after accepting bribes. These are criminal acts and can subject the officer to prosecution.

EXCESSIVE FORCE

Any list of possible charges brought against a police officer includes the use of excessive force used on defendants during arrest or detention. Officers have been videotaped or witnessed by bystanders tasering defendants who have been handcuffed and no longer posing a danger, or beating up helpless defendants following traffic stops or other street detention.

Officers have been charged with murder after shooting an unarmed defendant who was not threatening them or who lied about a defendant's alleged action in reaching for a weapon. Police officers have broad latitude in protecting themselves and others in arresting someone, but they cannot cause serious bodily harm once the defendant is sufficiently restrained and is no longer a risk. Most of these cases of alleged police brutality demand a thorough examination of all the facts and circumstances surrounding the case.

The scheme succeeds in blaming me for thier acts by them asking a Lilly White Assed Dominatrix to adjudicate the evidence, clearly using an imposter of me, usually non white. to confess to peeping at White Women.

According to Pizzagate reporter Jen Moore, the scheme is under control of the top most political figures, and the impersonator of me will do so many drugs partying with the pizza in the blur of it all will be caught with child porn, etc., and wake up to find that (the impersonator) has been robbed or blackmailed.

The retaliation for what the impersonator alleged to me will be attributed to me in a compounding KOMPROMAT file used for my sabotage behind the scenes.

Chapter 2: Acting as Confidential Human Source Informant (Probation and Supervised Release Conditions) *

A confidential human source or informant is a defendant who engages in the prohibited activity of associating with persons engaged in criminal activity for the purpose of furnishing information to or acting as an agent for a law enforcement or intelligence agency. Since the inception of the federal criminal justice system, prosecutors have used defendants supervised in the community as confidential human sources or informants.

The activities required of confidential informants or human sources, however, may potentially conflict with conditions normally imposed by a court. Acting as a confidential informant or human source is generally inconsistent with the rehabilitative and re-integrative goals of supervision.

Such activities may also pose risks to the probation officers who supervise these individuals, especially when they have limited knowledge or no knowledge of the nature of the informant’s activities.

There are rare occasions, however, when the law enforcement benefits to the community justify permitting the defendant to engage in this high-risk activity.

In these cases, strict monitoring by the court/probation office is necessary for the safety of the community, the defendant, and the supervising probation officer.

Building Supes and Landlords

They often go along with illegal requests from police and building owners. When I move into an apartment it seems to be bought by a new different owner, and the building supes are usual gang criminals openly planting evidence, opening the lobby mailbox and going into my mail, etc.,

What is visible with Tom Dunham, Veronica Hoffman, and myself is the same pattern of Pizza Gate and CIA DOD sponsored activities under suggestive asset names such as "Harvey Dent," "Don Johnson," "Cahill," "Kendel F. Person," and "Theo" and Thea's, and others, slightly obfuscated and usually self describing covert ops assets leaving paper (soot stained,) web, photographic, and other evidence of their presence faking Tom Dunham, Veronica Hoffman, or myself as incompetent or child trafficking.

The web, in the home of us three people, in the gym surrounding us, or as we access ATMs and our phones jingle at weird times (as others seem to be with us at the ATMs) or things "happen" in the workplace, the workplace party, massage parlors (which we are not or are at) or in the gym, covert operation frame jobs defame us, not to ourselves in any manner we can refute, but as social sabotage behind the scenes in Criminal Harassment Under Color of Law, Conspiracy Against federally protected Rights such as housing, First Amendment, Privacy, Property, or other rights, and even health access such as rehab facilities, suborning of medical doctors, etc.,

The effect of illegal but state sanctioned harassment has been fatal in Veronica Hoffman's case and deadly to Tom Dunham and myself, still alive, but without the ability to rent without covert activities sabotaging and terminating rental properties.

The Government interest and resources utilized in these harassment schemes at least in my case and Veronica Hoffman's case have been un-defeatable and life shortening, bringing about egregious injury.
